Faszination Bogen continues very successful its way from a printed magazine to a digital version. The number of redemptions of the activation code has increased to nearly 4.000 subscribers. Or said in other words: About eight percent of all German archers are reading the "FaBo". And they are doing it very intensive. Over 220 hours of reading time we counted in our statistical analysis during this year, only. We approved very much our aim, in cooperation with the German Shooting Federation, to reach all target groups in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. The offered and successful keeps on stories of the world of archery and a focus on the service in the areas of training, equipment, psychology and medicine. The digital magazine allows us to extend our up-to-date-coverage on sport competitions and recent events. As a client, you have even more opportunities to reach out directly to your customers via the e-paper. Readers interested in your products and services will be only one click away.

4 Data storage media:

CD-ROM, DVD

As well as the data storage media we will require all information relating to:

- Magazine/title
- Sender/company
- Operating system
- Program versions used
- File name
- Number and names of printing inks.

5 Fonts:

No modified fonts may be used in program files or attached font imports. All fonts and type styles used, especially those contained in EPS files, must be individually listed in the order.

6 Colour advertisements/records/proofs:

A colour proof of each page to be exposed is required. For colour advertisements with special colours (Pantone, HKS) colour-separated hard copies with the exact colour designations are required. A colour proof is required for printing advertisements in Euro scale (CMYK). Colour prints from a colour printer or copier are not of contract-proof quality.

7 Prices:

Uptake of digital advertisements is charged on the basis of time expenditure. Errors in exposure as a result of incomplete or flawed files, incorrect settings or incomplete details shall be charged. This applies equally to the creation of missing proofs. Files in Work, Excel and Powerpoint may only be used at an additional cost.

8 Guarantees:

The publisher cannot be held responsible for any deviations in texts, images and colours in particular. No guarantee is accepted for colour advertisements that are produced without a contract-quality proof.

General terms and Conditions

1. Advertising contracts are in cases of doubt to be completed within a year of conclusion of contract.
2. The discounts stated in the advertising price lists will be honoured only for the ads from a principal that will appear in print material within an insertion year. The period begins with the publication of the first advertisement.
3. The principal has a retroactive claim to the discount applicable to its actual acceptance of advertisements within one year's time, if, at the start of the period, it concluded a contract based on which the discount is already specified in the price list. The claim must be asserted within a month after the expiration of the insertion year.
4. If the contract is not executed for reasons for which the principal is responsible, it must, without prejudice to any other legal obligations, refund the difference between the discount granted contractually and the discount applicable to its actual ad purchase.
5. Costs for changes to originally agreed upon designs will be borne by the principal.
6. In the event of price increases, an extension to contracts already in place is reserved.
7. No guarantee is given for the placement of advertisements in certain issues or specific places in a printed medium, unless the principal has expressly confirmed this wish in writing.
8. The principal is responsible for the timely delivery of print data. The obligation to retain the data storage devices ends six months after the expiration of the contract.
9. Proofs will only be provided on expressed request. The principal bears the responsibility for the accuracy of the returned proofs. If the principal does not return proofs that we sent to it on time in a timely fashion itself, approval to print is deemed granted.
10. It is only possible to print advertisements free of typographical mistakes if print documents are delivered that are themselves free of mistakes. The principal does have a claim to reduction of payment or a replacement ad in the event that the advertisement as printed is wholly or partly illegible, incorrect or incomplete, but only to the degree to which the purpose of the advertisement is adversely affected. Additional liability on the part of the publisher is excluded. Complaints must be asserted within four weeks of receipt of billing statements and receipts. The publisher accepts no liability of any kind for errors of any kind resulting from telephone communications.
11. The publisher will show as much consideration as possible for avoiding the placement of competing advertisement on facing pages, placing them on different, non-facing pages as far as this is possible. There is strictly speaking no right to the exclusion of competitors. If the principal and the publisher do agree on an exclusion of competitors, this only applies for two facing pages and for advertisements that are at least 1/2 page in size. If a contract specifies a location, the exclusion of competitors cannot be agreed to.
Advertisements that cannot be recognised as advertisements because of their editorial design will be made recognizable as such by the publisher using the word "advertisement". The publisher reserves the right to reject advertising contracts – including those for individual calls in the framework of a contract – and orders for insets due to their content, origin or technical form according to the uniform principles of the publisher. This also applies to orders which are submitted with representatives. Insert orders are only binding for the publisher after submission of a template for the insert and its approval. The principal will be notified immediately when an order is rejected.
13. A decline in circulation only has an influence on the contractual relationship if a circulation number is promised and it drops by more than 20%.
14. The advertising client gives assurance that it is the holder of the copyrights and/or use rights to the content shown in the motifs in the advertisement. The advertising client indemnifies the publisher to this extent against all third-party claims, which this third party brings in connection with the publication of an advertisement – printed or digital – against the publisher.
15. If a periodical ceases or interrupts its publication, the principal cannot assert any claims of any kind whatsoever for the expenses for texts, graphics, generation of print data, etc. which are thereby rendered invalid.
16. On request, the principal will be given a file copy free of charge after the advertisement appears, to the extent that the type and scope of the order justifies this. If a complete file copy can no longer be provided, a page proof will be provided instead.
17. The current price lists of the various publications apply for billing the advertisements, as they apply at the time the advertisements appear. Possible subsequent billing or credit to account remains reserved. Fractions of mmlines will be counted as full lines.
18. If not size specifications are given, the actual printed size will be the basis on which the price is calculated.
19. All prices for domestic orders apply plus the sales tax. They are due and payable on receipt of billing statement immediately and without discount. In the event of any default on payment, e.g. even in the case of judicial assistance to debtors, initiation of insolvency proceedings, bankruptcy, etc., any discount that has been granted is revoked and will be billed retroactively. Furthermore, default interest as well as dunning and collection costs will be billed. The execution of contracts can be suspended until all outstanding payments are paid in full. Interruptions in the execution of ongoing contracts due to default of payment do not entitle the client to extension of acceptance deadlines and do not establish any claim to compensation for damages on the part of the principal.
20. German law applies under exclusion of international private law and the UN Convention on the International Sale of Goods. This also applies to orders from Austria and Switzerland. In business transactions with merchants and legal persons under public law, Wiesbaden is agreed on as the sole court of jurisdiction for all legal disputes concerning these terms and conditions and individual contracts concluded based on them including complaints concerning bills of exchange and cheques. The place of fulfilment is the headquarters of the publisher. Court of jurisdiction is, to the extent that the law does not mandate anything else, the publisher's headquarters, even for dunning procedures as well as in the event that the residence or habitual domicile of the principal is unknown at the time that the action is brought or the party to be subject to the action relocates its residence or habitual domicile outside of the jurisdiction of this law after the contract is concluded, the headquarters of the publisher is agreed on as the court of jurisdiction.
